HELPING OUT

FOR a city in which party politics plays no part at all in the direction of civic affairs Hongkong is well served by its various community groups. Among the most prominent are the two represented in the Urban Council — the Reform Club and the Civic Association — and this despite the stagnant political atmosphere.

The Kowloon Residents Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees and the Kafongs have established their reputation in different but equally important and highly valuable roles. There are others, and it is the widespread hope that next year the Federation of Industries will start its important work.

IN our community groups, in the scope of their activities and the enthusiasm of their members there is evidence of a new pride in achievement growing up. But the transformation is slow. Hongkong people have often been accused of excessive self-concern. We lack the ability to get together to deal with our various problems. The advocates of the Federation of Industries have found how true this is.

There are also many examples of people shirking service to others. The Officer Administering the Government mentioned only the other day the weakness of the Trade Union movement and the role Government has been forced to adopt to get improved conditions of employment and pay. Many industrialists would prefer the Department of Commerce and Industries to carry out the work of the Federation of Industries and many more would leave the business of running the Colony entirely to the people in the Colonial Secretariat — since that is their appointed task. But like every Government which strives to be effective, and to govern according to the community's needs and wishes, ours values public participation and advice. This comes from members of the Legislative Council, the Urban Council, the committees which Government has appointed to help in special work, and the various community groups.

IT is not necessary to agree with the policies of organisations like the Reform Club and the Civic Association to recognise their value. They are composed of men and women, many experts in their own professions, who give a great deal of time and trouble to local problems, and if their recommendations often have only a limited support, their great merit lies in the thought, comment and reaction they stimulate.

The Civic Association which held its annual meeting on Friday has established itself as a progressive and responsible institution, sympathetic to the conditions which prevent it playing a far bigger part in the running of the community, but still eager to contribute authoritative and well-reasoned views on a wide variety of subjects. Their chief contribution, as far as the general public is concerned, is in the interest they have aroused in local affairs, the public-spirited individuals they have produced and the many positive proposals they have shared in bringing to fruition. Hongkong would be a much poorer place without them.

POLICE ALLEGED HE CALLED ON DECEASED TO COME OUT AND FIGHT YOUNG SEAMAN IN COURT

Hearing Told Of Drink On Board Tug

A young British seaman accused of manslaughter called on a member of the crew of the Tug, Welshman, to come out to the upper deck to fight, Police alleged in court today.

The accused, 20-year-old Brian Leslie Fenton, deckhand, is facing criminal proceedings before Mr K. A. S. Phillips at Central Magistracy this morning. He is charged with unlawfully killing Leslie George Metcalfe, 32, artificer, on board the tug in Hung Hom Bay in the early hours of November 20.

Divisional Detective Inspector G. J. Batt, of the Marine Police, said the incident arose out of a fight between Fenton and Metcalfe.

"The Prosecution will give evidence to the fact that a certain amount of drink on the vessel the evening Metcalfe did have a knife in his hand earlier on in the evening."

Inspector Batt said he boarded the tug Welshman in Hung Hom Bay with Dr T. C. Pohg and a detective at 3.35 a.m. on November 20.

He saw the body of a European man in a bunk in the greasers' cabin. Dr Pang then examined the body.

Inspector Batt said he went to the fourth engineer's cabin where he saw the accused who was sleeping then.

He said the accused was then woken up, and he was satisfied that he (the accused) was awake and aware what was happening.

In answer to a cautioned statement, the accused said that he had struck the deceased in the alleyway once.

From the pocket of a jacket in the cabin, Inspector Batt said, he took possession of a British Seamen's Identity Card in Metcalfe's name.

He then saw the tug's donkeyman, George Richard Malby, who had a cut on his left hand. Dr Pang took a blood sample from Malby.

Reports But No Fugitive

Reports came from many parts of the Colony during the weekend that the missing fugitive wanted for the shooting of a Policeman in Wanchai last Tuesday had been seen.

He has been reported in Hongkong and Kowloon and yesterday police assisted by a helicopter combed the wooded hillsides of Lai Chi Kok and set up checkpoints on the Castle Peak Road nearby.

Last night a European couple reported seeing the fugitive as they drove along Pokfulam Road towards Aberdeen. On receiving the report, police rushed men there, but there was no sign of the man.

He was also reported seen near Tung Shan Terrace, Stubbs Road, and later he was reported to have hidden in Bowen Road, near Stubbs Road.

Police searched this area too without success.

A Government spokesman told the China Mail this morning the search was continuing.

Unbefitting A Memorial

Slosh, Nov. 21.

A Frenchman who served in the British Army said he was going to send a protest to the Queen if the local council did not remove a war memorial plaque from the outside wall of a public convenience.

The other two signs on the wall in the Slosh War Memorial Gardens read "adies" and "gentlemen."

The Frenchman, M. Paul P'Hoste, aged 45, now living near Slosh, said the placing of the memorial on the convenience was "a disgraceful insult to the men I saw die in the North African desert."

He was prepared to go to jail if he could get it removed. — China Mail Special.

'We Won The War But Lost The Peace'

New York, Nov. 22.

Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery said in a televised interview today that the Allies had made "a great strategic mistake" in failing to battle their way through Italy into Austria in World War II.

The British war leader also said the failure to co-ordinate policy and military strategy in two world wars had lost the peace. "We have won the war militarily and we have lost the peace twice," he said.

Lord Montgomery said that if the Allies had pushed northward through Italy into Austria they could have got to Vienna before the Russians.

AGREEMENT

The United States commander in Italy, General Mark Clark, agreed, saying that a French-American force, with the collaboration of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, "could have beaten the Russians into Budapest and Vienna, which would have had a great influence on the post-war struggle with Communism."

Former General Fridolin Von Senger, who commanded the German forces at the battle of Monte Cassino Italy, also said he agreed, "in a way."

The three military leaders appeared on a programme entitled "Mistakes of the War," with Edward R. Murrow. In the opinion of Lord Montgomery, said general, must record their views for the purposes of history and that anyone who held high command was entitled to be criticised for his conduct during a war.

Lord Montgomery's remarks were filmed in London. General Clarke in Charleston, South Carolina, and General Von Senger in Basle, Switzerland.

POLITICS

Politics entered the discussion when Mr Marlowe asked for their views on generals going into that field.

Lord Montgomery, declaring "that's a good one," said that generally speaking, such high military officers were not trained for politics. They were trained to take direct action, had to do the best they could in the time available, and were not dependent on votes.

When general, go into politics I think they find a pretty rough game," Lord Montgomery said.

Naples, Nov. 22.

The crew of the 3,948-ton French freighter Brede refused to sail the ship tonight because of a parish clergyman and went on to live bigamously for over a year.

The man was about to embark for Portugal with his "second husband" when the freighter was discovered by the coast guard who told the captain that defendant was already married.

Aims Of Garment Makers Outlined

In a statement issued after their meeting with Mr Henry Kearns, U.S. Assistant Secretary of Commerce at the Colonial Secretariat this morning, the Working Party of Hong Kong Garment Manufacturers (for the U.S.A.) Association said they were convinced that the orderly marketing of Hongkong garments in the United States required at least two lines of action on their part.

First was a voluntary and democratic limitation arrived at within the Association, of the growth in export of the U.S. of "critical" cotton garment items, and - the consideration of orderly marketing techniques.

STANDARDS

Secondly, the maintenance of export standards, such as quality control promulgated by the Association but subject by extension on a participating basis to all other qualifying Hongkong garment manufacturers for the United States market.

Goods produced and meeting these export standards would be subject to special labelling for consumer protection.

The statement confirmed: "It is the intention of the Association that provision should be made for exporters to be included in the aims of the Association.

"It was further pointed out to Mr Kearns that membership in the new Association was open to all manufacturers manufacturing cotton garments for the U.S. market."

The Association understood, the statement said, that Mr Kearns could give no guarantee that Hongkong exports to the United States would not be practised by the imposition of tariffs or other controls as a result of Presidential or Congressional action in the United States.

Since this was the case, the Association asked Mr Kearns to use his best efforts on their behalf, and subscribe to the security of their aims.

INDEPENDENT

The Association pointed out to Mr Kearns that their action was independent of the other groups representative of Hongkong Industry, and that any steps they would take should not be construed as a precedent elsewhere.

The 18-member working party for the formation of the new Association elected Mr Y. L. Yang as Chairman, Mr S. K. Chan, Vice-Chairman and Mr Charles E. Gibbs, Secretary.

Before the meeting Mr Kearns had a talk with Mr H. A. Angus, Director of the Commerce and Industry Department.

Mr Kearns leaves for Manila this afternoon.

Shah's Wedding May Take Place Christmas Week

Teheran, Nov. 23.

The engagement of the Shah of Persia and Miss Farah Diba will be announced this evening, court officials said today.

It is understood that the wedding ceremony will take place in Christmas week.

Miss Diba returned from Paris on Saturday and later dined with the Shah to discuss future plans.

Yesterday Miss Diba attended a palace luncheon given by the Queen Mother in the presence of the Shah.

Earlier, Miss Diba had laid a wreath on the tomb of the late Shah Reza.

Royal guards are now stationed at the home of Miss Diba's uncle where she is staying.

During her stay in Paris Miss Diba was reported to have bought a fabulous collection of clothes valued about £50,000.

Yesterday marked the first marriage of the year in the Iranian Royal family, when the Shah's sister, Princess Fatima, married as her second husband General Khatami, Commander-in-Chief of the Iranian Air Force.

The wedding took place in Teheran at the hands of Iran's Queen Mother, and was limited

Cotton Grey Goods Market

New York, Nov. 22. Activity in the cotton grey goods market continued at a routine pace this week for the second time in a row.

Holiday considerations and failure of sellers to supply goods for spot and nearby delivery in worthwhile amounts continued to be a restraining influence.

Despite the slow-down, prices maintained a firm tone. Weavers regarded the lull as a natural development after two months of rather hectic buying.

Opinion consensus suggested that the market is apt to continue on a quiet note for the immediate future.

In the period between now and mid-January, consumers will be busy digesting recent purchases, or preoccupied with purchases, taking and other year-end fiscal matters.

MAY IMPROVE

But shortly after the New Year, majority opinion suggested a resumption of large-scale buying may be in the wind.

This week best interest was shown in twills with clothing manufacturers covering requirements into the spring months. Sportswear makers were situated in Bedford cords and some poplin, while broadcloths were in general demand.

Reopening of the steel mills brought an improved demand for wide coating fabrics for January-February delivery.

Hard fibres were firm for sisal and hemp, while durcup eased in sympathy with the Calcutta trend. Buyers of sisal met a diminishing supply of Brazilian and British East African types. Hemp distributors reported difficulty in locating some selections.

In the wool trade, brokers reported limited activity. Nylon grey goods distributors reported a continuing demand from converters for deliveries through the first half of next year.—UPI.

Output Almost Reaching Near-Capacity

New York, Nov. 22. The U.S. steel industry this week continued to make an unexpected record comeback to near-capacity production, a bare twelve days after striking workers reopened the silent mills.

The rapid comeback promised a faster recovery. Although it was by no means certain that another work-out will not occur after January 20, it was reasonable to expect that it would get much more from the 90-day Taft-Hartley injunction in the way of steel production than was originally anticipated.

Many segments of the metal manufacturing industry were still badly ailing, however, notably automobiles and other effects of the record steel strike, while already partly overcome, were only now coming to light.

Statistics

Government statistics showed that the strike had hurt the economy more than had been expected. The Commerce Department reported the gross national output skidded from a $484,300,000,000 rate in the second quarter to $478,000,000,000 in the third.

This was fully $2,400 million less than originally estimated for the July-September period.

The third quarter drop would have been even higher, around $11,000 million, if it had not been for gains in consumer spending, increased government outlays and the long-awaited improvement in America's foreign trade balance.

The $11,000 million drop on paper was in effect the rate at which the spring's record build-up of inventories was being used up once the strike started.

Estimates for the final quarter showed a gross national product at a rate of $480,000,000,000. This, if true, would mean a total figure of production and services for 1959 of about $480,000,000,000. It would be a new record despite the setbacks and would be fully eight per cent above 1958 when the gross national product totalled $441,700,000,000.

Output Figures

Another set of statistics showed industrial production in October dropped to a seven-month low, an index figure of 148 based on the 1947-49 average. The peak of production this year was reached in June, the last month with the steel mills in full operation.

It stood then at 155. The original estimate of 148 for September was increased by the Federal Reserve Board to 149 in view of a record output of non-durable goods. But in October both soft and hard goods output fell as a result of dwindling steel inventories.

Yet another set of statistics showed new home construction dropped 13 per cent in October, the third straight monthly decline. However, as with the gross national product, the Commerce Department still hoped it would set a new house construction record with a rate of 1,300,000, well above the 1,039,000 set in 1958.

Aluminum

Steel was not the only metal in trouble. Both aluminum and copper were showing signs of falling, the first because of dropping demand and curtailed production, the latter because of protracted strikes. Aluminum companies, which last week announced cuts in output, were beginning to show drops in earnings for the nine-month period of 1959.

Kaiser Aluminum announced it would cut down another on Saturday at its Mead, Washington, aluminum reduction plant, a result of inventory buildups. This was the second closing of a line unannounced by Kaiser this month, and trim the plant's production to 62½ per cent of 170,000-ton annual capacity.

Meanwhile, some aluminum warehouses on the West Coast have sharply reduced prices on aluminum sheets, plates and bars.

The U.S. copper industry appeared headed for a long winter. Kennecott, the world's largest copper refinery, withdrew from the market temporarily as all its stocks had been shipped to customers. Shipments of copper to U.S. industry last month totalled 88,646 tons, down 22,821 tons from September. This reflected fluctuations in steel news and on special items including a long list of improved dividends, stock splits, good news from industry recently depressed inventories, strong acceptance of American telephones, banking and talk of what is the matter with the U.S. tax structure.

Scrap Prices

While the cold wave threatening to cut down ore supplies, the price tug-of-war scrap continued in Pittsburgh and other major steel centers. Steel mills considered themselves lucky if they were able to purchase scrap at $46 a ton, six dollars above pre-strike levels; some scrap dealers, feeling their advantage, quoted as much as $51 a ton.

However, new obstacles appeared in the form of freezing weather on the Great Lakes where most of the iron ore carriers start their way down to the plants.

Gold Market

The industry as a whole now scheduled production at 78.9 per cent for the current week—a total of 2.2 million tons. This volume had not been anticipated for another week.

Estimated for the final quarter showed a gross national product at a rate of $480,000,000,000. ## London Market Weakens On Profit-Taking

London, Nov. 22.

Investors have been in a more cautious mood this week with the result that there has been profit-taking to some extent in both private and professional accounts with buyers more selective. In consequence the undertone of share markets has weakened.

The guarded warnings of the Industrial looked less unsatisfied.

The week ended with a steady, if selective, demand, much of it negative buying for the account that opens on Monday, which was sufficient in the aggregate to offset end-of-week weekend selling.

Stocks have had a very unsettled week and presented an irregular appearance. Electricals, engineers and textiles had some good features. Oils were largely neglected and prices tended to sag. Copper stocks have been a compressed market, and reports of a compressed market in the medium term.

Reports from Washington said that negotiations would start soon between the Americans and Rumanians on a debt settlement encouraged speculators to buy Rumanian bonds, which caused a slight flurry in this section of the market, but elsewhere foreign bonds were quiet.

Dollar stocks were mostly easier in reflection of Wall Street. The dollar premium sagged 3% per cent to 1/38 in consequence.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

The Financial Times industrial share average has fallen from 308.8 to 301.4 this week. The week opened with a burst of selling and for the rest of the week, although the selling tended to dry up, the market remained sensitive and irregular. The chief sufferers were those issues which had benefited most from the recent upswing.

By Friday, however, the market had recovered to 301.4 in the course of the day.

Menon Tells Of Plans To Resist China

Bombay, Nov. 22. Mr V. K. Krishna Menon, the Defence Minister, said in Bombay today India had made the "necessary adjustments to see that any further penetration of our frontier with China is adequately resisted."

Addressing a public meeting at Shivaji Park, north Bombay, Mr Menon said this would mean an additional defence burden. "But, expense or no expense, this country is prepared to spare nothing to defend its sovereignty," he said.

Earlier, at another meeting in Bombay, Mr Menon declared that India did not wish to be permanently hostile to China, but this did not mean that her attitude should be interpreted as a sign of weakness.—Reuters

London, Nov. 22. Mao Tse-tung may be trying to stop Soviet Premier Khrushchev meeting Western leaders in an East-West summit meeting early next year.

Diplomatic dispatches reaching London suggest this.

In August last year, Khrushchev withdrew from an agreed summit conference with the West after an emergency meeting with Mao in Peking.

Now diplomats feel Mao is again putting pressure on this year—but he seems to be keeping away from stepping up tension in Asia.

They point out that not only is Mao not making any attempt to end cold war tactics—a point which President Eisenhower made a prerequisite for

Mr Nehru, the Indian Premier, was quoted as telling the Yugoslav Press tonight that "it is obvious the relaxation of world tension does not suit the Chinese and that they are not especially delighted with the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks."

"The Chinese are more inclined towards those currents in the world which are for the continuation of tension."

Russian Silence

Diplomats also point out that Russia has suddenly gone silent on the summit—a subject on which it commented so freely in recent months.

Earlier Britain had hoped for an early summit meeting—late this year or early next.

Then Khrushchev chose a late date for his visit to Paris which automatically put off the summit at least until late spring.

A veteran London diplomatic correspondent commented: "This development appears to some degree to suit the Soviet leader, who has secured a series of bilateral meetings with Western Government chiefs over the next few months. Mounting anti-summit pressure from Peking may be the answer."

Each time a new meeting is arranged, the summit is postponed farther and farther back.

Postponement

"Some observers suggested that Khrushchev might now want to postpone the summit meeting until after President Eisenhower's projected visit to Moscow expected some time in June. This would bring the talks uncomfortably close to the start of the U.S. Presidential election campaign."

The report adds that there are signs of considerable tension over policy, ideology and economics between Russia and China, and Peking was said to be following its present uncompromising line in an attempt to underline publicly that it has reserved a free hand to act as it chooses.

Chinese behaviour, diplomats said, is an important factor behind Moscow's sudden silence on the summit issue.

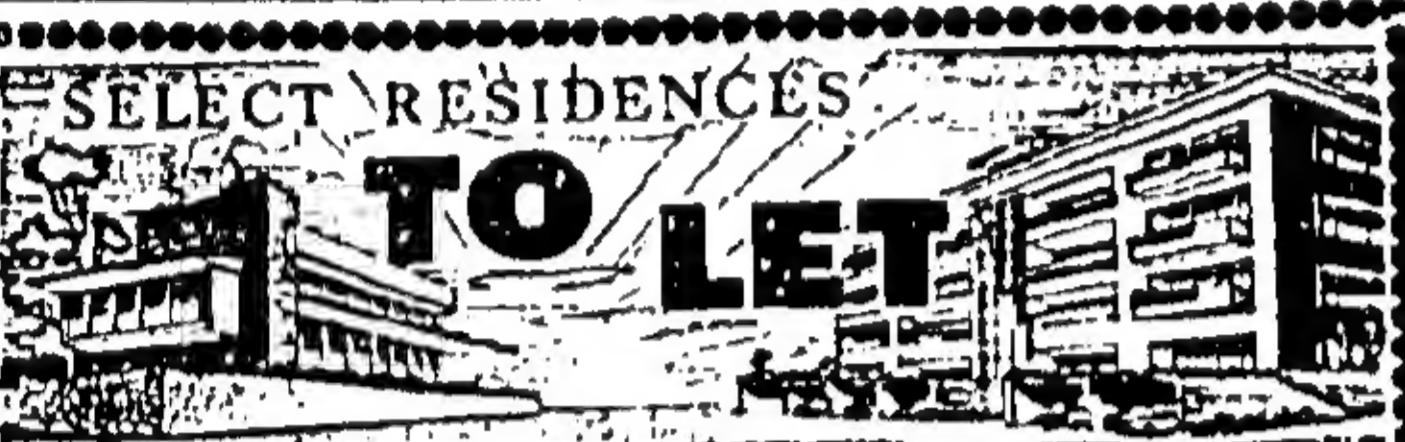

Russia cannot afford to "go it alone" against the veto of Peking since both countries are likely to be dependent on each other for a long time to come.—UPI and Reuters.

Moscow Derides H-Test Report

Moscow, Nov. 22. Radio Moscow today scoffed at fears expressed by Western scientific circles that the Soviet Union could violate an eventual atomic test ban agreement by exploding H-bombs "secretly" in outer space, for instance, behind the moon.

"Man is working on the conquest of space now," the radio said. "Why should he risk polluting it with radioactive debris?"

The radio commentator added, "The Soviet Union has always declared it ready to suspend nuclear testing on condition that others do the same. Now, certain Western states have announced new atomic tests for next year, while others are preparing to become atomic powers."—UPI.

Rising Incidence Of Adultery In Britain Deplored

Dr Donald Soper, a former President of the British Methodist Conference, said yesterday that adultery was "poisoning" the life of the nation.

But he told a reporter he did not support the suggestion, by Dr Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, that adultery should be made a criminal offence.

"It would be completely impossible to enforce such a law," Dr Soper said. "Unenforceable laws being the whole legal system in contempt."

CERTAIN FORMS

"But it may be that certain forms of adultery involving a breach of trust might be made criminal offences with advantage to the community."

Dr Soper said he doubted whether the British public realised the extent to which adultery had become general.

"I should say that it has doubled in the last 50 years and is poisoning the national life," he said.—China Mail Special.

Oldest Actor 90 Yesterday

London, Nov. 22. Mr A. E. Matthews, who claims—with some validity—to be the oldest working actor in the world, celebrated his 90th birthday at his home at Bushey Heath, Hertfordshire today.

The old stage and screen actor, who is known to his friends as "Matty," spent his birthday quietly at home with his wife.

"I had lots of invitations to go out for the day, but I did not accept any of them. If people want to see me on my birthday they must come to my cottage,"—China Mail Special.

India Must Make Her Own Arms

New Delhi, Nov. 22. Mr Nehru, the Prime Minister, said here today that because of the danger of Chinese border attacks, India must make her own arms and so be independent of foreign "armaments kings."

India would have to build up her heavy industry, he told a meeting of the Dalai Congress Party. Present events had shown him what a grave mistake not to have built one or two steel plants in India's first five-year plan.

Mr Nehru said the entire process of obtaining modern arms from Europe and the United States was fraught with grave risks.

"Present-day wars are fought by big weapons. If you cannot manufacture these weapons you become dependent on other countries and have to pay very high prices for them," he said.

FULL OF TRICKS

"This business of buying arms abroad is full of all kinds of tricks and underhand things. The armament kings bring pressure of a terrible nature on countries urgently needing arms," he said.

They had been known to dictate terms and conditions which on occasions meant almost "strangling" the country which needed arms, Mr Nehru said.

"All this makes it imperative that we should become independent of these foreign sources for our armaments without any further delay; this can only be done by having a heavy industry of our own."

Mr Nehru appealed to Indians to make sacrifices and forgo some of their present comforts as a price they had to pay for future prosperity and strength to defend the country.—Reuters.

Reunion

XKXville, Nov. 23. Two brothers who had not seen each other in several months met on the streets yesterday.

Donald Allen, 21, returning to his family from a visit to Kokomo, Indiana, reconnected his brother, one driven by his mother, David Allen, 16.—UPI.

China And India As World Industrial Leaders Predicted

Chicago, Nov. 22. Former Presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson predicted today that in fifty years China and India will be leading world industrial production, even ahead of the Soviet Union and the United States.

But Stevenson's view was opposed by Sir Charles Darwin (the grandson of the Darwin who formulated the theory of evolution) and by British biologist Sir Julian Huxley.

The three were appearing on a television interview here. Stevenson pointed out that historically it took nations from 40 to 60 years to become industrialised. On that basis, India and China could be expected to become industrialised at about the start of the next century.

POPULATION RISE

He referred to the rapid expansion of the populations of India and China, and said that while the United States and the Soviet Union share the power at present, it would some day take other hands.

Darwin and Huxley, however, expressed the opinion that precisely because of the never-satiated food needs of their populations, the overpopulated countries such as India and China are faced with an almost insurmountable difficulty in their industrialisation programmes.—UPI.

U.S. TO LAUNCH LUNAR SATELLITE

Washington, Nov. 22. The United States will attempt to launch a scientific satellite into orbit round the moon next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, usually well-informed sources said here today.

If it succeeds, it will be the first American moon satellite.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which would be responsible for the attempt, declined to confirm or deny the launching date.

PRESTIGE

Space experts said the moon-shot if successful would go far to restore United States prestige in the space race with the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union has successfully landed a rocket on the moon and has sent another rocket on a path round the moon which transmitted the first pictures ever taken of its far side.

The sources said the lunar satellite, now being prepared for launching at Cape Canaveral, Florida, was equipped with a variety of scientific instruments, which should provide valuable new data on conditions in the moon's vicinity. It was not known if a camera was included.—Reuters.

Cowboy Charged

New York, Nov. 22. A television cowboy, Bob Fuller, star of the western "Laramie," was rounded up by Police here today when a shot rang out in the street.

Fuller, wearing his full cowboy regalia and accompanied by two models, said his holster-edged revolver, loaded with blanks, discharged accidentally as he was entering a taxi to drive to a television studio for a show.

The Police were unimpressed and he was ordered to report for a Court hearing Wednesday on a charge of discharging a gun in a public place.—Reuters.

34-YEAR-OLD DEBT PAID

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 22. A man who took a ride on Charles Peltz's bus 34 years ago paid his fare yesterday.

The unidentified man left $2 and a note at the office of the Bedford-Mitchell bus line, explaining that he owed the money as "an insult to my reputation for integrity."

Mr Hoberman declined to give a specific reason for the dismissal of the disc jockey.

The station has asked all its disc jockeys to sign the statement.

REFULF TO SIGN

Freed's dismissal followed his refusal to sign a statement that he had never taken money or gifts to promote records.

Freed—whose rock 'n roll shows have led to teen-age riots in theatres here, in Boston and St. Louis—said he had refused to sign on principle.

He denied that he brought along a gun to shoot down a document to him as "an insult to my reputation for integrity."

The evidence suggests that undesirable practices and discrimination may be taking place," he said.

All British broadcasting is under the control of the Postmaster General J. S. Bevin.—UPI.

TO SHOOT 100 DEER

Copenhagen, Nov. 23. A hundred Danish deer will pay with their lives for this year's long dry summer.

Thirty deer destroyed many fields of beetroot, turnips and potatoes for which farmers have claimed about £1,000 compensation.

The money will be raised by shooting 100 deer and selling the meat.—China Mail Special.

Cave-In Kills 3

Palermo, Nov. 23.

Three workers were killed to day in the cave-in of a stone quarry at nearby Castellani Di Morello.—UPI.

Long-Distance Marching Craze Sweeps Britain

London, Nov. 22. Contestants engaged in a mass assault on the world marching record this weekend dropped out one by one today with an assortment of blisters, sprained ankles and legs that "just packed up."

Several others were still marching through Britain's latest spontaneous craze—attempt to walk 110 miles in less than 33½ hours, the previous record.

There were so many people at it today that the nation's two automobile organisations ordered their highway patrols to keep an eye out for marchers and see that they caused no traffic problems.—UPI.

Million-A-Year Output Envisaged

London, Nov. 23. A £19,000,000 development project to raise The British Motor Corporation's production capacity to 1,000,000 vehicles a year was announced today.

Sir Leonard Lord, BMC Chairman, said in a statement circulated to shareholders with the annual report for 1958/59, that 489,048 vehicles had been produced during the year under review.

"From August 1 to October 31 we made 147,309 and currently we are producing at the rate of 750,000 per annum."

"When the extra facilities become progressively available in 18 months to two years, the magical figure of 1,000,000 units a year will be within our reach," he said.

'Baby' Output

Production of the new "baby" cars announced by BMC in August had already reached the planned maximum output of 4,000 weekly.

"But it has already become obvious that this is not sufficient. Therefore we are taking steps immediately to double this output to 8,000 a week."

"This will include an additional range of light commercial vehicles which we hope to announce in January," Sir Leonard added.

BMC makes Austin, Morris, Wolseley, Riley, MG, and Austin-Healey cars.—Reuter.

VAUXHALL EXPANSION TALKS

London, Nov. 22. Vauxhall Motors, a subsidiary of the American car manufacturing firm of General Motors, today said it had begun talks with the Board of Trade concerning the possibility of a further factory expansion.

Vauxhall only recently completed a £16,000,000 expansion programme at its factories at Luton and Dunstable.

A Vauxhall spokesman said today: "We are having talks to find out what the position would be if we wanted a further expansion. The motor industry never stands still."

He said that detailed planning was going on at the moment for increasing the firm's capacity from 250,000 to 300,000 vehicles a year by installing extra plant in the present buildings.—China Mail Special.

Singer Threatens Action

WINIFRED ATWELL

London, Nov. 22. Winifred Atwell, the popular West Indian "hankonyok" pianist, is today reported as threatening legal action against slum landlords who use her name as an attraction to West Indian immigrants to Britain.

According to the Sunday Picador, the landlords' bouts picked the immigrants' boot trains in London and tell them that Winifred has bought property for them to rent."

The newspaper adds that the immigrants are likely to find themselves paying high rents in overcropped slum property.

It quotes the pianist as saying: "I would like to find the men who are misusing my name."—China Mail Special.

Two new British immigrants have just arrived in New Zealand — but they're immigrants with a difference. For Mr and Mrs Mervyn Zimmerman, pictured here on arrival, hitch-hiked the entire 10,000 miles, through France, Switzerland, Italy, Persia, Turkey, Pakistan, India, and across Australia. The newly-weds left England in July, finished the trip at a cost of £90 each. They are to settle in Palmerston North. Says Mervyn (his wife's name is Margaret): "I'm glad we did it, but probably not again."—Express Photo.

Two Fine Artists At Saturday's Concert

By D. E. GRAY

THE Music Society presented two fine artists at Queen's College on Saturday evening. They were Julian Olevsky, violinist, and Wolfgang Rose, pianist.

The programme was very well laid out and consisted of two serious sonatas in the first half, followed by three shorter and lighter works after the interval. The first work was Brahms' great D minor Sonata, and we were given a first-class performance of this.

One always tends in Violin/Piano works to look and listen to the violin, which of course is quite wrong. But on Saturday night, one was forced, by the sheer artistry of the performers to listen to the wonderful interweaving of the tonal patterns created by the two contrasting instruments. This was in no small measure due to the outstanding musicianship of the pianist, who was obviously also a man of the widest experience.

I think the young violinist will have a great future. Some might say that he could have got a greater breadth of tone in the second movement (Adagio). But no one will dispute the delicacy of the Scherzo (incidentally it is written in 2-4 time, not 6-8 as the programme note said), and the powerful vigour of the finale.

It is a pity that Mr Olevsky could not play on his Stradivari, which had been affected by the climate in the Philippines. Instead he played on a violin by Gaud, the well-known French maker.

The noise of passing traffic was damped considerably on Saturday by the windows of the hall being firmly closed. But one could still hear it as an undertow; and this, to my mind, spoils the beauty of total contrast, as pianissimo passages tend to be blurred. Because of its location this hall will always be inferior to Lake Yew Hall as a concert auditorium.

Ate The Cat Food And Liked It

Llanelli, Nov. 22. When one of the regulars at the Trevoise Head Inn celebrated his birthday, landlord Cyril Thomas provided free sandwiches for all 40 guests.

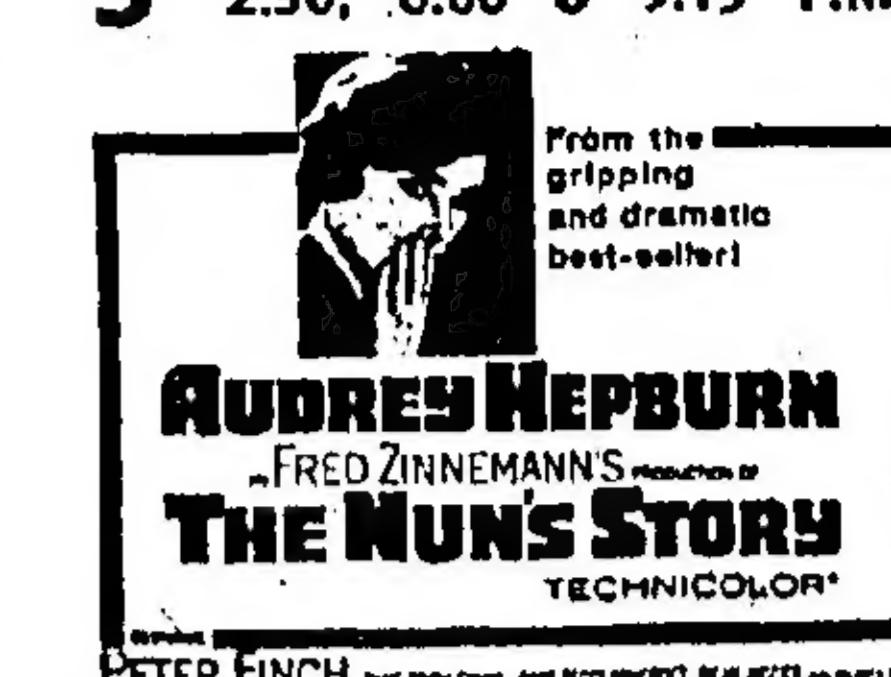

"They wouldn't touch the other sandwiches," he said today. "They said the 'salmon' specials" were the best they had ever tasted."

But Thomas said the "salmon specials" were made of canned cat food.

"Whatever was in them they were delicious," said party guest Ralph Jones. "We all had a good laugh when we found out."—UPI.

By Gog IN RUSSIA THEY PLAY THE BALALAICA

PAGE SIX gets first peep at the Comet's Big Brother

Cost of putting one new giant into the air: the wooden mock-up costs HK$8,000,000; developing the Rolls-Royce Conway engine about HK$320,000,000.

HERE SHE IS—the Vickers VC10 jetliner, biggest aircraft project ever tackled in Europe.

I went to get the first pictures of her at Weybridge, Surrey, the other day.

And, as you can see, Britain's Big Jet is a mightily impressive creation. Unseen, but dramatically symbolised, is the gigantic gamble she represents.

This is the full-scale wooden mock-up, essential preliminary to production of the identical metal airliner for which jigs are now being erected to meet the target maiden flight date of summer 1961.

Carpenters as skilled as tunnel work have been any in the country have completed in 18 different constructed this wooden tunnels with 18 high-speed models and 16 low-speed ones. Tests have been carried out into furnishing schemes. It has engine intake performance, taken them more than a year tackling the main fuselage, wings, and rear-engine mountings while the tailplane is built at Hurn, 90 miles away.

Led by Vickers's brilliant managing director, Sir George Edwards, 400 draughtsmen and already more than 1,000 technicians are working on the VC10. Over 2,000 hours of wind

TOO LATE?

Vickers, manufacturer of the world-beating Viscount, is investing some HK$520 million of its own capital to tackle the Vanguard turbo-prop and the VC10 jet as private ventures. Boeing will fork out HK$1,400 million for 55 of the big jets with spares, but Vickers will have to sell at least 55 more to break even.

At the best of times projects involving such sums must be gambles. But this VC10 will be coming into service in 1963—FOUR YEARS after its American rivals, the Boeing 707 and Douglas DC8. At first sight it looks like yet another case of Britain building the right aeroplane too late. One more to add to the sorry list of aircraft which don't sell in large numbers. To date the Viscount has been the only exception.

NEW PLAN

But Vickers believe the VC10 will be the right aeroplane at the right time. They pin their faith on the rear-mounted engine design which will enable their aircraft to fly more passengers more cheaply out of airports which the 707 and DC8 can barely serve. They confidently claim improved safety margins, greater passenger comfort, better engineering techniques, and higher operational capabilities.

for size

I only hope they are right. For the truth is that our airliners, from the Britannia to the Dart Herald, are not selling well—and at the same time military demands have stumped the aircraft industry is having a tough time.

Something, as the new Minister of Aviation, Mr Dun-sands, is fast realising, has competitive delivery dates and got to be done. Most dramatic reduced costs. A shocking suggestion—or a number of cure-all proposed to him is the suggestion that the Government should pick that the Government should pick the aircraft projects that look like winners and underwrite very the only way of maintaining Britain's prestige in the air. large-scale production—perhaps 100 aircraft.

Which, however you look at it, is a vital business. As well as an expensive one.

Hyper-kinetic children just need a pill

New York:

A PILL has been found for children who fidget. In a study of 40 over-active children, the pill succeeded in calming down 31 and transforming them into reasonably happy and industrious scholars.

"The scientific name for this type of fidget is hyper-kinetic impulse disorder," said Dr Hunter H. Comly, director of the Children's Centre of Detroit, who conducted the tests.

"Our investigations indicate that many such children suffer temporarily from brain injury—often mild—probably caused before, during or immediately after birth," he said.

Big help

There is evidence that at least two per cent of the school age population in the United States present this problem between the ages of five and 11.

"In kindergarten, such a child, even though normally intelligent, is distractible, restless, impulsive, very easily frustrated and his mood fluctuates unpredictably from moment to moment or day to day," Dr Comly's report noted.

Although the new pills aided some of these children much more than others, the tests indicated that "if the medicine helps, it helps considerably," he said.

Tung Wah . . . 3, KMB . . . 1 'TWAS FOOTBALL FUTILITY

Toledo, Yiu Cheuk-Yin And Chan Fai-Hung Save The Game From Utter Boredom

By I. M. MacTAVISH

At the end the Hongkong Stadium scoreboard showed that Tung Wah had defeated KMB by three goals to one and frankly there is very little else to say about the whole dismal affair. This was quite the worst first division match I have ever had to watch.

The football was too poor for words and it is a subtle reflection on the present state of our soccer that these two teams are still regarded as worthy of a place among the aristocrats in the current competition.

Tung Wah deserved to win yesterday if only because they made fewer blunders than the bottom gear Busmen but the fact that 10,500 spectators paid $18,500 for the very doubtful privilege of "enjoying" this sort of stodgy stuff reflects no credit on the players.

KMB have never sunk to lower depths. There was not a spark of life or a glimmer of enthusiasm in the side and from the moment Tung Wah got their opening goal, the Busmen failed to resign themselves to defeat.

Actually it was more a surrender than a defeat for, in boxing parlance, the KMB boys threw in the towel long before the end.

Lifeless

I am afraid this once fine team has come to the end of its run. Team building on an extensive scale will have to be undertaken if they are to recapture their former glory and somehow—in the meantime—the disappointed club officials will have to find some way of rekindling the will-to-win in this strangely lifeless combination.

Tung Wah were not much better than the opposition but in Toledo, Chan Fai-hung and Yiu Cheuk-yin who had three players who were able, in spains at least, to produce a fitting finish of class and that was enough to win the game. There was not a single incident worth recording during

Bouquet For Toledo

A minute later a clearance from the KMB goal landed in front of Toledo standing some 35 yards out. The right-back took a couple of steps and smashed a great low drive to the near post. Wai Fat-kim underestimated the power behind the shot. He went for it much too casually and it tore itself from his grasp to drop over the line. A header for Toledo . . . and an aside in blackmarks for Wai Fat-kim.

Toledo was in the limelight again almost immediately. He held a KMB attack in spectacular fashion by kicking the ball off the Tung Wah goal line after goalkeeper Kwok Chow-ming had been well beaten.

Tung Wah deserved their 1-0 lead at the interval.

The second half was even a bigger bore than the first one. Passes went to opponents with unfailing regularity, miskicks were frequent, shooting inaccurate, and there was hardly a single occasion when the fans could raise a cheer.

'Waiting For A Bus'

The expected fightback by the KMB boys never materialised. If anything they got steadily worse.

In the 65th minute Tung Wah scored a second goal and once again it was an inexplicable error by Wai Fat-kim which made it possible.

Cheung Chi-doy trailed the ball along the byline and pushed it into the goal area. The KMB goalkeeper seemed to be "caught waiting for a bus". Even so causally he stooped down to collect the ball but Au Pang-lin nimbly round on the blind side and cheekily flicked it almost out of his grasp.... The KMB defenders hung their heads in despair as the ball trickled over the line. It was enough to make even a red bus blush.

In exactly 60 seconds more the usual misery of KMB's plight was further emphasised.

The whole defence stood and watched as the ball dropped in midfield from a clearance. Wai Fat-kim moved out of his goal to follow the progress of play and his advanced position was quickly spotted by wily old Yiu Cheuk-yin. The little inside left called for the ball and, with typical calm, lifted it cutely over the long barrier of heads over Wai Fat-kim's up-stretched hands... and it sailed accurately into the back of the net. The goalkeeper went off later for a spot of medical attention. He was soon back.

With a three goals lead Tung Wah were well set for victory nine minutes later they lost a goal when Lau Kai-chu recovered after Ng Wan-man had failed to prevent Chow Shun-hung from getting the ball into the middle.

Leung Kit had one fine shot which rebounded from the crossbar but there was not another thing to brighten the proceedings and it was a real relief when the final whistle sounded.

Rockbottom Form
Kwan King-sang who took Lo Pak's place at right-back in the KMB side was not a failure. However Wai Fat-kim and Lou Tim hit rockbottom form and there was not a single Busman who deserved a merit mention. Several deserved the opposite.

Tung Wah had the enthusiasm of Toledo and the class of Chan Fai-hung and Yiu Cheuk-yin. They had very little else but these three were enough to earn two points.

Club XV's Celebrate Return To Home Ground With Two Decisive Victories

By PAK LO

Both Club rugby teams celebrated their return to their home ground on Saturday after a long and enforced absence with clear-cut wins. The Club "A" had a grand run out, and after scoring in the second half at a rate of better than a point a minute finished up with a final tally of 41 points (four goals, seven tries) to nil over RAF Little Sai Wan. The Club "B" in a rather disjointed game, still proved powerful enough to beat RAF Kai Tak by 21 points (three goals, one try, one penalty goal) to 6 points (two penalty goals).

The game between 32 Medium and 1st Tanker was cancelled. At Sikong, Police won easily by 29 points to nine points in a first open game, with Police playing 14 men most of the time as Lloyd cracked his ankle. This pitch is in a very poor state, this being the second time a similar accident has occurred in the last few weeks.

Club "A" v. RAF Little Sai Wan

This RAF XV will show four changes for its first game in the Pentangular, and all four are in the forwards.

While this will strengthen the pack, which badly needs strengthening, it leaves the back line intact, and this column predicts that, unless the RAF have a sudden influx of new blood they are fated for the wooden spoon this year.

Refused To Tackle

The handling of the three was not bad and their positioning in defence was excellent. Each man covered his opponent just inside their own half, but RAF did not tackle and Club got the ball out to Utility who went away up the wing, kicked ahead, and the ball bounded out of the RAF full-back's hands into Utility's, and grasping the ball, Utility charged through to score in the corner. No conversion. 15-0.

The Club scored again in the first minute when the Club three were caught in possession just inside their own half, but RAF did not tackle and Club got the ball out to Utility who went away up the wing, kicked ahead, and the ball bounded out of the RAF full-back's hands into Utility's, and grasping the ball, Utility charged through to score in the corner. No conversion. 15-0.

In fact the RAF could parade with a little more before the game reading, "Any tackles are purely coincidental, and bear no relation to the actual thing."

Facing this sort of defence the Club had no trouble in running up a very presentable score.

The Club pack had a good day, King monopolising the scrums while Ross dominated the line-outs, and the rest of the team played an excellent game of open rugby, though Ingle could have scored a few more points by looking at the line instead of the man coming up behind him to push him into touch.

Played Well
Johnson had a wonderful game, dropping only one pass from Bennett and that was a bad one. Bennett served out through the game—but Johnson also showed at last that he was more than just a link. Finding the gaps in the centre he made scoring easy for his threes. Watson also had a good game at full-back, but was never in trouble, and played a big hand in helping the threes.

Rockbottom Form
Certainly this game was a good trial run for Club who oddly enough meet the RAF in their first Pentangular match on December 8.

Club started well when in the first minute the ball came back from a lineout to Laville who paved the way with a break through the centre. He was caught with yards to go, but Penman, covering well got the ball and scored near the posts. Wiggett, who had a definite off-day as far as kicking was concerned, failed to convert. 3-0.

Of all things they collect "entertainment tax" on the gate...there are ten and half thousand good souls who will willingly declare they are getting a large slice of it under false pretences...there was precious little entertainment in this match.

SPAIN BEATS AUSTRIA AT SOCCER
The 'Tank'
He should not have scored had the defence had any backbone, and in this case with a man well in the clear outside him he should have passed out and made certain. Wiggett converted. 28-0.

The next score came again from a free kick, this time against the airmen ten yards from their own line. Bennett tapped a short one to Williams who scored near the posts. Wiggett converted. 33-0.

Two minutes later the "Tank" was seen in action again, as it thundered up the wing, shrug-

WEEKEND SOFTBALL

'NEW LOOK' BRAVES PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP BALL TO BEAT SOUTH CHINA

By OLLY VAS

The Braves played championship softball yesterday to overcome a four-run deficit and eventually beat South China AA by 11-6 in the weekend's feature game at King's Park.

In one of the other league games the Pandas upset St Joseph's 6-5 when in the last inning Raymond Tsao singled to drive in two runs, with two away. The ladies were idle. The Cheyennes failed to turn up and conceded a walk-over to the Toreros.

In Junior matches the one-bit Pedroco's hastiness to bunt edged New Asia 15-14—toss the strikes before the man in a dull game and the Starlets ate humble pie at the hands of the Cheyennes who beat them 14-9.

Batting first the Braves were reined in order and the first pitch was not long in coming.

John Peirce misjudged a long ball off P. C. Wong's bat and SCAA were on top.

The situation now was with only one away and Murray and Bill on base. K. K. Sit lashed out at one of Pedroco's fast pitches. The ball was picked up by Braves second baseman

"Tiger" Hussain who made a dash of the throw to first. Two runs tailed end seconds later it was 4-0 when "Goose" Wong rapped a single past third base to score Ed Young. Things looked bad for the Braves at this early stage of the game.

Well Fielded

In the top of the second inning Pedroco earned an apple for two beautiful fielding plays when he jumped high up in the air to glove the ball and toss

out Thaylor and F. C. Wong

at first base.

Finally another foot-up penalty against the airmen in the usual position, and another short kick this time to Laville who dived over well out. No conversion. 41-0.

The Club maintained their pressure and RAF were penalised for feet up in the scrum, a fault which they repeated all too often, and most of all when near their own line, as the hooker vainly endeavoured to beat King to the strike. The Club took a short kick, and

Williams barged through and handed on to Ross who scored half way out. No conversion.

Johnson broke through a minute later with a nice run up the wing, and after a scrum the ball moved across the three and the Club three settled down and had some very nice handing movements that would not have disgraced their generals.

Samuel Fault

The airmen from Kai Tak

showed exactly the same fault

as the airmen from Little Sai Wan. They did not tackle, or when they did, they did it so badly that Club three had little trouble in breaking through.

For the airmen Ahern had a good game in the forwards, and converted two prodigiously long penalties to give his side their only score. Club retaliated with a try by Hall, three tries from their centre three, a new-

ARE THESE FEET WORTH £50,000?

By Capel Kirby

Denis Law, Huddersfield Town 19-year-old inside forward, will eventually be the central figure in Soccer's biggest-ever auction, and when that happens bidders for this brilliant young play-it-hard Scottish international must be prepared to go to a record bid of at least £50,000. Huddersfield will go to any lengths to keep Law at Leeds Road. But their promotion prospects are fading, and they need the money.

£40,000 Plus Two Players

Until now, hopes of a return to First Division football have caused manager Bill Shankly to develop a Molotov headshake through dealing with "What price Law?" inquiries. He even threatened action through channels if there was the slightest suspicion of poachers at work, or any evidence of back approaches being made.

At the same time it is no secret that some Huddersfield directors favour cashing in on players, and although Law is not their only asset he is the one most sought after by League clubs with money to spend.

Unless championship-seeking Tottenham Hotspur have called a halt to their big spending spree, their bid is likely to be in the region of £60,000, the figure quoted last January when they offered centre-forward Dave Dunnmore and left-winger Terry Dyson, plus a cheque for £40,000 for Law. Since then Manchester United, Wolves, Arsenal, and, more recently, Everton have shown keen interest, and I understand Newcastle would join in the hunt as soon as Huddersfield put out the "for sale" notices.

Are Dens Law's talented feet really worth all that money? . . . worth more than, say, Albert Quixall or Mel Charles, whose record transfer fees stand at £45,000? There is no disputing the Huddersfield player's skill, but, frankly, I think the answer is "No."

My reason is that his forceful, fear-nothing style of play makes him too injury-prone, and it is not sound economics to risk having £50,000 or more stretched out on the treatment table for long spells. Moreover, there is

Neale Fraser Outlasts Roy Emerson

Sydney, Nov. 22. Neale Fraser outlasted Roy Emerson, 11-9, 8-6, 6-3, in a long and hard-fought championship match today in the men's singles in the New South Wales tennis tournament.

The first set went 62 minutes before Fraser could end Emerson's service in this battle between two Australian Davis Cup players. Left-handed Fraser then held his own serve to take the set.

The mixed doubles final also was evenly contested — so much so that failing light forced abandonment of play before the match was finished. Bob Howe of Australia and Maria Bueno of Brazil won the first set 6-4, and the Australian team of Bob Marks and Mary Reitano won the second 11-9. The third set was tied at 7-7 when play was stopped, to be resumed next week at Victoria during the championships there.

In the women's singles match today, Jan Lehane beat Mrs Reitano 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs Lehane, 18 years old, said the victories here had encouraged her greatly and she believes she has a "50-50 chance" of winning the 1960 Wimbledon title. —UPI.

PI Champion Outboxed By Korean

Seoul, Nov. 22. Korea's top middleweight Kang See Chull won an unanimous decision today over Philippine champion Young Paulino in an exciting action-packed 10-rounders.

About 52,000 spectators packed the outdoor ROK Army Stadium here as the two fought with temperatures below freezing.

Kung's victory followed a draw between the two fighters earlier this month.

Referee Jackie Park and two judges, all Koreans, came out with identical 5-2 scores in favour of Kang who cornered the Filipino champion on numerous occasions and had him against the ropes with fast two-handed attacks. —UPI.

Russian Soccer XI Beaten In Canton

Tokyo, Nov. 23. The visiting Russian Terek football team was defeated 3-2 yesterday by the Kwangtung team in a friendly match played in Canton, the New China News Agency reported.

The score at half-time was 2-1 with the Chinese team leading. —UPI.

NEXT RUGBY LEAGUE WORLD CUP TO BE HELD IN BRITAIN IN SEPTEMBER 1960

Leeds, Nov. 22.

The next Rugby League World Cup will be played in September 1960 in Britain, the Rugby League International Board decided here today.

The decision was carried three to one. Britain, Australia and New Zealand voting for and France against.

The competition will get under way on September 24 and last two weeks. There will be two referees at each game, an Englishman and a Frenchman. This means that apart from the France-Britain game, the referee will be neutral.

Britain proposed that a foul at the kick-off — for example when a player kicked directly into touch or deliberately went off-side — should be penalised. The proposal was turned down. Australia and New Zealand voting against it with France voting in favour.

The delegates agreed, however, that the proposal was worthy of further discussion and referred it to the various Federations.

Penalty Tap

The Board also decided unanimously to do away with the penalty tap. This new ruling will be enforced in Australia next season and in the other three countries as soon as the National Federations have given their approval.

The Board also agreed to abolish the advantage rule in the scrum.

Britain suggested an amendment to the holding rule where the substitute half is obliged to pass the ball. Only France voted for the British proposal and it was turned down.

This rule exists at present in Britain. The question also was referred to the different Federations.

The Board also discussed varying interpretations of rules in the four countries, particularly with changes made in Australia, and agreed to do their utmost to achieve uniformity of rules and their interpretation.

Tours

The Board approved France's tours in Australia and New Zealand next May. In 1961 New Zealand will play in England and France, in 1963-64 season Australia will come to England and France.

The Board discussed the games expansion, but did not agree on whether the costs of launching the game in Italy, covered so far by the British Federation, should in the future be covered by the benefits from the World Cup.

An Australian suggestion that the publicly funds be taken from the receipts obtained during the various tours was approved.

No decision was made with regard to expanding the game in South America or the Fiji Islands.

Bill Fallowfield, secretary of the Board, said that the United States was waiting for news from Australia on the possibility of the Australian team's playing in the United States on its way home from Britain, where it is at present. The Australians' visit to the United States was still in doubt.

If they do not go, they would play two matches in Italy on January 23 and 24.

Time-Keepers

An Australian suggestion that there should be time-keepers at all international matches was approved, and the decision will be applied in the future at all "Test matches" between the four countries.

The Board reaffirmed a previous decision that agreements on transfers of players between two countries are the affairs of only those countries. Fallowfield announced that the British Rugby League will discuss arrangements for the World Cup at its next meeting, the date of which has not yet been set.

The Board secretary said that the competition would break even if its receipts reached £37,000. If the receipts went above £43,000, he said, there would be a profit to be shared among the four competing countries.

The next meeting of the International Board will take place in September. —AFP.

London, Nov. 22.

An American will play for Oxford University's Rugby Union in the annual match against Cambridge at Twickenham on December 8. He is Peter Dawkins, a Rhodes scholar who is studying at Oxford's Brasenose College for two years. He will play three-quarters right wing.

Dawkins, who is 21 years old, was an American football star before coming to Oxford this autumn, and up to now has played only eight rugby matches. At West Point, the U.S. military academy, Dawkins was considered the best cadet since General Douglas MacArthur. OLEVSKY:
I WAS AMAZED

A famous American violinist said today that he had been amazed at the standard of Hongkong concert audiences.

He is Julian Olevsky who left Hongkong by air today for England.

Olevsky, who is making an extensive tour of the Far East, performed in four concerts over the last three days in Hongkong.

"I was amazed at the response the audiences here gave me," he said.

"Apart from being particularly enthusiastic they appeared to have a very full knowledge of advanced classical music."

"Our programme was a fairly heavy one... a programme which in other parts of the world would have gone over the audience's head."

"It is very encouraging to see such progress and I will be looking forward to my next tour of the Orient," he added.

Compensation Refused To Sub-Tenants

A Tenancy Tribunal on Saturday refused compensation to people claiming to be sub-tenants because it alleged they entered a house in Lai Chi Kok Road after exemption proceedings had been instituted.

They were also deprived of costs in the case and ordered to pay their own fees for legal representation.

The President announced the Tribunal's decision to recommend exemption of 195-201, Lai Chi Kok Road, and compensation totalling $117,000 for tenants about to be dispossessed.

Their premises will be replaced by a $1,000,000 nine-storey block which must be completed within 14 months.

Plates With Impressions Of $100 Notes Reported Found

Police raided a flat in North Point one night in August and seized a number of plates with the impressions of HK$100 and Filipino 10-pesos notes. The Victoria District Court was told this morning.

Before Judge B. J. Jennings, a farmer and an electro-typewriter, denied charges of conspiracy and making and possession of implements of forgery.

The electro-typewriter, Wong Shum, was represented by Mr B. A. Bernachi, instructed by Mr G. E. S. Stevenson, and the farmer, Lam Hin-shun, was not legally represented.

Crown Counsel W. Collier told the Court that a police party raided Block "E", North Point Building, second floor, on the night of August 11.

They found that one of the bedrooms was well lit with three powerful electric lights. The two accused were in the room, each holding a plate.

Police also seized other plates, bottles of chemicals and other articles.

Mr Jose A. Fornier, Filipino Consul, said he was acquainted with the banknotes of the Central Bank of the Philippines.

No one in Hongkong was allowed to print Filipino banknotes, he went on.

Showing two plates, Mr Fornier said one of them bore the name of the Central Bank of Philippines, and the other had the impression of 10 pesos.

TWO ON FORGERY CHARGES

My Brush With Death

By Mooney Of The Memnon

Peter Mooney, 23, laughed and joked with nurses at the Matilda Hospital this morning — only a few weeks after he had "brushed with death."

He propped himself up in bed and declared "I'm lucky to be alive."

Peter, a sturdy Liverpool seaman, has almost recovered from an emergency appendicitis operation which was performed on board the vessel Memnon in the Royal Navy cruiser Belfast.

Mooney was in severe pain when he was transferred to the Belfast after it made a dramatic dash to his vessel Memnon in the South China Sea.

Shortly after, doctors on board the Belfast started a two-and-a-half-hour fight for Mooney's life.

He regained consciousness at 12.30 am on November 4, and found a priest praying beside his bedside.

"I knew then just how close I had brushed with death," Peter told a China Mail reporter today.

He said that doctors had told him later that he would have died if the operation had been performed any later.

"I'll never forget those hours before I was picked up," Peter said.

"The agony was terrible and on several occasions I felt as if I were dying."

"At first nobody knew what was wrong with me but when they found out I had acute appendicitis they radioed an S.O.S."

"About 12 hours later the Belfast steamed into sight and within half an hour I was on the operating table."

"I'm dying to get out of hospital, sail home and get married," he added.

Peter said one of the things that kept his spirits high was the thought of his fiancee Miss June Anderson of Liverpool. "We're going to get married early next year," he said.

"I'm dying to get out of hospital, sail home and get married," he added.

He expects to be discharged shortly, after which he will join a ship to return home.

Man Dies In Fight, Court Told

An argument between two workers at the No. 3 mill of the Pacific Worsted Mills Ltd, Tsun Wan, on September 9, which led to a fight in which one of the workers died was outlined to Mr Justice W. A. Blair-Kerr and a Supreme Court jury of seven by Mr J. Bodilly, Crown Counsel this morning.

The Court is hearing evidence against Wong Ah-luk who is charged with the manslaughter of Lal Kam-ming.

Mr Bodilly told the Court that the case concerned an argument over their work between the accused and the deceased who worked on the same machine at the mill. He said this argument led to blows and that in the struggle the deceased fell onto part of the machine.

He said the deceased's left temple was injured in the fall and that it was this injury which caused his death.

Mr Bodilly said the accused and deceased were normally on the best of terms.

Contusions

A government medical officer, Dr. Pang Ting-chang, testified that he examined Lal's body on September 9. He found a wound in the left temple an inch and a half long, contusions to the right side of the brain and congestion in the lungs.

He said the cause of death was contusion of the brain and that the shock of injury to the left side of the head had been transmitted at right angles to the other side of the brain.

Dr. Pang said the congestion of the lungs was apparently the result of chronic malaria but he added, in reply to a question from Mr Bodilly, that exertion by a man with lungs in this condition should cause no effect.

He said the injury to the head could have been caused by some object striking the head, or deceased falling on some object.

Dr. Pang agreed with Mr Bodilly that the injury could have been caused by Lal falling and striking his head on a chair.

Soon after, I came back and the deceased was lying on top of a box and two men were giving him first aid. He was unconscious and apparently in a critical state. I did not know if he was dead.
